What is expected of teaching schools?

In order to ensure a self-improving, school-led system, teaching schools are required to operate by the following principles:

Effective Delivery	Each teaching school alliance effectively delivers across all three areas of core activity: ITT; CPD & leadership development (CPLD); school-to-school support. KPIs set out the minimum requirements for a teaching school alliance to achieve.
Accountability	In order to ensure credibility and high impact of all teaching schools, they must adhere to requirements set by NCTL and co-operate with necessary reporting processes.
System leadership and engagement	Teaching schools build an effective alliance of schools, and work strategically with other schools and providers within their regional and sub-regional networks to ensure every school can engage in school-led improvement.
Continuous Improvement	Each teaching school is required to pursue continuous improvement supported by the peer review process in order to develop and achieve/sustain maturity of provision.

Delivery area	TSA ¹ Key Performance Indicator
School-led Initial teacher training (ITT)	1.1. At least 15 teachers trained ² per year 1.2. Percentage of trainee teachers who have secured a teaching post within 6 months is at or above national averages ³
